3. Full day Guangzhou city tour to Guangdong Provincial Museum, Canton tower, six Banyan Temple, Lichiwan Stream.

Itinerary: Pick up at hotel in the morning, then proceed to Guangdong Provincial Museum, which has recently completed construction in 2010. It covers a total floor area of 66,980 square meters. The five storey building consist of four large exhibition halls with a collection of over 166,000 exhibits which are divided into three main categories: Lingnan history, natural history and Chinese art. The exterior design of the museum is inspired by intricately sculpted antique Chinese artifacts such as lacquer boxes, ivory balls and jade bowls. However, completely futuristic in its design, the cut-out surface looks like extraterrestrial symbols. The whole aesthetic makes the Guangdong Museum one of seven cultural landmarks in Guangzhou, China. And then visit to Canton tower, climb the tower and have a look out of the both shore view of Pearl River. Canton Tower, with its complex, transparent, curvy and gracious appearance, owns the nickname: "Xiao Man Yao" which means "slim waist". It topped-out in 2009 and became operational on September 29, 2010 for the 2010 Asian Games. It is the second tallest tower in the world.

After lunch, visit the Six Banyan Temple. The Temple of the Six Banyan Trees is an ancient Buddhist temple originally built in 537 in the Liang Dynasty in Guangzhou, southern China. The main structure of the temple, was built in 1097, and was named for its colorful exterior. The Flower Pagoda once had a square base in its architecture. And then Visit to Lichiwan Stream, it is used to be a place with "Two banks of red lychee trees along with a green brook" and is now a major tourism attraction, providing a magnificent scenery of abundant trees, elegant bridges, winding water ways, blue-grey brick buildings of typical South China architecture and boats ferrying tourists along the waterways. Here concentrates the famous restaurants with history dating back to the Qing Dynasty, and they are still thriving today.
